'Lost wallet' scam serves as warning for consumer

By Dr. Harold Gluck

In the April 15, 1987, issue of Coin World there was an excellent warning article by Mike Levin of Boca Raton, Fla. He warned readers about what he called the New York "vagrant" coin scam. Now let us examine this in detail, see how it works and what you can do to recognize it, and beat it!

The grand-daddy of all these crooked attempts to get money from you starts in what is known as "The Found Wallet Scam." You are walking along the street minding your own business. Suddenly, a well-dressed man points to something on the sidewalk. It is a wallet. He picks it up and asks, "Is it yours?"

"No," you tell him.

"Let us two see what is inside," he, smiling, said. "If there is anything valuable, I guess we have to split it."

He opens the wallet and examines the contents carefully. There are bills of large denominations. It looks like foreign currency. Then he takes out some gold coins.

"All of this must be worth a small fortune," he comments. "Do you live around here? Do you have a phone? I see a card with an address on it and phone number. Some big real estate man."

Some people do invite this man up to their home. And he makes the phone call from there. Others suggest they find a public phone and call from there. He does the talking and when finished tells you the news.

"His secretary says he is out looking for this wallet. He is a big coin collector. A reward of $200 is offered for its return with contents intact. That means we split the reward money. One hundred for you and one hundred for me. So let's go. His office isn't too far from here."

Then he stops short and exclaims. "I almost forgot about my airpane flight. I can't make it if I go with you. You take the wallet there. Give me any spare cash you have on hand and let's call it quits."

You give him $40 and you are on your way to that office. You smile because you figure you are $160 ahead for doing almost nothing. You get to the office building. Take the elevator to the third floor. Go in and tell the secretary you have the lost wallet of her boss.

"What lost wallet?" she asks. Then you tell about the phone call. "None to this office." Her boss is kind. He sees you and look at the wallet and contents. Take out the "gold coins" which are made of nice shiny brass. The paper money is really "toy money."

"You fell for this trick? too bad. But you can call the police up from here. Give them a description of the crook."

There are women who use this "Found Wallet Scam" on other women. That's how I got involved. One tried it on my mother. She invited the woman into her apartment. Said woman made the phone call from there.

"Five hundred dollars reward," she smiled. "You take it to this address. I have to leave to see my sick husband. Have you any cash on hand?"

"I want to call my son on the phone first," said my mother.

"But why do you have to call your son?" asked the woman with the "found wallet."

"Because he is with the police department," was the answer.

"Seems to me you are old enough to mai your own decisions. If you call him, then I am on my way. And you lose half of the promised reward money."

My mother called me and I told her to get as good a description of the woman as possible. Which she did. And we learned that this woman had pulled that same gimmick with several other women who fell for it.

Varieties on a theme

As you can easily figure out by now there must be a lot of varieties on this trick. You are walking along a street where there is a coin shop. This time it is a purse on the ground. The other man picks it up and finds a lot of gold and silver coins in it.

"I guess half of it belongs to you," he says. "I know nothing about this stuff. I'm not dressed too fancy. So you take it into the coin shop and let me know how much they are worth."

You get the valuation and you come to return the coins and give him the news.

"About $1,500 for the lot."

"Half of that is yours," he smiles. "Give me whatever you want for the bunch of coins. I have to be on my way."

You give him $60 and he returns the purse to you. Into the coin shop you go. And get a shock of your life! He made a switch and you have a lot of coins worth about $15 at the most.

Proper responses

All of thse schemes can be divided into two classes. One is where a wallet or purse is found containing valuable items and cash and coins. You are to get part of the reward when it is returned to its rightful owner. The other is where a stranger approaches you. He has some very valuable coins to sell you at a low price. He has this story made up beforehand. He won them in a card game, he got them in payment of a debt or even found them in an abandoned house. Here is how you handle the situation:

This is for the first class: This is what you say to the person. "I am under the impression that there is a very definite law in regard to lost items found on a public highway or street. You must turn said item over to the police. They have the responsibility of finding the rightful owner and giving the item back to him. Now surely you do not want to break the law. I have a police whistle in my pocket. I can call the police or we can stop a patrol car. If they can't find the owner then you get the item. You can also leave your name in regard to a possible reward. As for myself, I want no part of any reward. I feel it is the right and moral thing to do."

This is something the crook was prepared to handle. He will make some kind of an excuse and vanish from the area. Unless a police patrol car comes on the scene. Then he may have some tough talking to do to the officers, who know all about his scheme.

This is for the second class: "I assume you have on your person means of identification. If the coins were stolen then you cannot pass legal title to an innocent purchaser for value. I do want to help you. See that coin shop? We go in together and you sell the coins to the dealer."

Want to bet that he beats it away in a hurry?

Finally, the telephone call he may make is to a friend in a bar or waiting outside a public phone. Just remember if you know how he works and now you do, you won't get hooked by him.

Medal commemorates Customs Service

The Nevada City (Calif.) Mint has been commissioned by the United States Customs Service, Pacific Region, to strike a commemorative medal for the U.S. Customs Bicentennial celebration in 1989.

The medal features Custom's Liberty Lady on the obverse and the famous revenue cutter Californian, the region's bicentennial flagship, on the reverse.

"It's an honor to be selected by the Pacific Region and to be a part of this important event in their history," said Don Schmitz, who founded the Nevada City Mint in 1975. Schmitz operates the business in partnership with his son, Ken.

The medal is available to the public in silver and bronze, and may be obtained by mail from the non-profit Nautical Heritage Society, 24532 Del Prado, Dana Point, Calif. 92629, or by calling toll-free (800) 432-2201.

Schmitz said that a portion of the proceeds from each sale will go to the continued restoration of the historic ship.

Individual medals are available in a plastic case or in a plastic display holder with easel. Sets displaying both sides are available in a book holder. In addition, the medal may be obtained on a money clip with sterling silver overlay on a nickel base.

The Nevada City Mint, based in the historic northern California gold rush town of Nevada City, produces medals for cities, states, national parks and other organizations. The firm recently completed "The Californias," a 13-medal series for the California Department of Commerce.

The father-son team also operates the historic Carson City Mint in Nevada where they are the official minters for the state.

For further information, contact the Nevada City Mint, P.O. Box 1916, Nevada City, Calif. 95959, or call (916) 272-2600.

Thanks to R.M. Johnston, Ray Hahn and Charles Diehl for their donations of money or stamps. We do send out a lot of freebies and at 25¢ per Bugle it does add up.

Thanks to Mike Yborra. He took time out to research the question "What Mints are still operating?". Lawrence Cole wanted to know.

I have a question? Did WWM ever Mint the WWM-108 Mount Hood Coke Bar? I know there is a picture in the book but I've bought a few sets and sold a few sets but I have never bought or sold the WWM-108. You got one?

Don't forget your free classified ad you receive for renewing on time. If you have a red dot on your address lable it is time for you to renew. Take your free ad any time during the year.

Let welcome new members.....

Thomas I. Hill	Bedford, Ma.
Barbara Jones	Southboro, Ma.
Edward Sneckenberg	Freeport, NY.
Ron Angelocci	Madison Hgts, Mi.

. Remember, when you lay out your full and half page ads that you allow for a border. Some of you are squeezing it a little. I don't have the time to re-lay out the ads.

Advertisers

Notice how many nice paid ads we have this month. As a member it is your duty to let them know that you appreciate them. Drop them a line and say "I saw it in the Bugle".

Steve Rood's correction and additions to the 4th Edition 'Art Bar Book' continues this month. I hope all of you Art Bar Collectors are taking notes.

We still don't have Art Work for our 1983 Club Silver Bar. Feel free to remit $20.00 to insure your club numbered bar when they are ready. We will have a special membership mailing soon to inform you about a membership and board meeting. I hope Art work will be ready to include in that mailing. Send payments to Sec/Treas. Nancy Lee.

Enjoy this issue of the Bugle. There is something for everyone. Remember, we could use a few articles to go along with the fine advertisments. Your comments are always welcome. We will continue to list new issues so you will have the opportunity to buy what you want at the price. Thank .....Duane Spellman
